

Exclusion of liability / disclaimer

Within the framework of the BMBF joint project NOAH, numerous data are collected, processed, evaluated, or handled in other ways by the project partners. The public have free access to these map, model and measurement data.

The originator of the materials and the respective project partner of the BMBF project NOAH are identified on the respective documents / data. They are responsible for the respective content.

The HZG, as project coordinator of the BMBF joint project NOAH, configures the data of the different project partners for the NOAH project.

No liability or guarantee is assumed with regard to the suitability of the data for a specific application, their timeliness, correctness, completeness and quality or their availability at any time.

The HZG as project coordinator and the other partners of the BMBF joint project NOAH are not liable for damage caused by the use or non-use of the information provided. There shall also be no liability for any damage caused by computer viruses when accessing or downloading data or when installing or using software.

References and links

Direct or indirect links to websites of third parties existing on this site were created by the operator of this site to the best of their knowledge and with the greatest possible care and merely provide access to the websites of third parties.

Thereby the trustworthiness of the third-party providers as well as the legality of the "external content" of the websites of third parties was especially taken into consideration.

Since, however, the contents of websites is dynamic and can change at any time, a continuous individual assessment of all content to which a link has been created, is not possible in any case. The operator has no influence on the "external content" of linked websites of third parties and assumes no liability for this. The respective provider or operator of those sites is exclusively responsible for the contents of the linked sites. The operator therefore expressly does not endorse "external content". The respective provider or operator of the site which has been referred to is exclusively liable for damages resulting from the use or non-use of "external content". The editors will immediately remove such links when becoming aware of legal infringements.

Please let us know if you should notice that the link or the content behind a link is not correct, current, or is otherwise questionable.

Embedding links referring to content on this website requires the prior consent of the operator of this website.

Terms and conditions for the use of data and publication from the BMBF joint project NOAH (As at: 01 March 2016):

The following conditions apply to any use of data from the BMBF joint project NOAH. The user acknowledges the following data and agrees to the following guidelines:

- The rights to the data belong to the originators or the project partners (see identification). No transfer of rights takes place with the granting of the possibility of use.
- The use of data, maps and materials provided within the framework of the BMBF project NOAH is free under appropriate statements of authorship and permission, provided that no commercial use takes place.
- The principles of "good scientific practice" must be observed.
 - In particular, the naming of sources and adherence to the quotation requirement are to be observed in accordance with the guidelines. This applies to all content, regardless of the file format and use.
 - No amendment is permitted to data or materials provided.
 - If the data provided by NOAH are an integral part of a publication, a co-authorship shall be offered to the originator.
- If other data of third parties are made available, this third party's rules for use must be observed.

Contact person / Contact information:

Projectmanagement:
Dr. Frank Bockelmann
Tel: +49 (0)4152 87 1881
frank-detlef.bockelmann@hzg.de

Further Contact information:
http://www.noah-project.de/about_us/index.php.de